TYPE I. Crouching horse reverse

O1. Head of nymph Larissa three quarters l., wearing ampyx, pendant earring, and wire necklace.

R1. ΣΑΙΩΝ above, ΛΑΠΙ in ex., horse crouching r., about to roll.

- a. 11.50 g Museum of Fine Arts, Boston, 896. Herrmann, ZfN XXXV, Group VII, Series I-A, Rs. II, pl. v, 3. Rothschild sale, Sotheby, 28 May 1900, lot 253. Ex Ashburnham.

TYPE II. Trotting stallion reverse

The obverse type throughout is head of nymph Larissa three quarters l., wearing ampyx, pendant earring, and wire necklace. Only distinguishing characteristics of the dies are noted below.

The reverse legend assumes three configurations: (1) ΛΑΡ above, ΙΣ reading downward on r., ΑΙΩΝ in ex (known on a single reverse die); (2) ΛΑΠΙ above, Σ reading downward on r., ΑΙΩΝ in ex.; and (3) ΛΑΠΙ above, ΣΑΙΩΝ in ex. The first two variants are obverse die linked and are here designated Series A. The third seems to represent a separate series with different patterns of die use and is here designated Series B.

Series A

O2. Small horizontal flaw at 3:00, extending from hair to dotted border. It develops further, extending past the border, when O2 is paired with R3. The die may deteriorate further when used with R4 (specimen b shows a rough patch in the area of the flaw).

Another pelletlike flaw beneath raised foreleg; three pelletlike flaws under belly; soft flaw connecting hind legs.
